

PEDAGOGY WORKSHOP

CO-CREATING THE FUTURE THROUGH SOCIALLY-DIRECTED SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

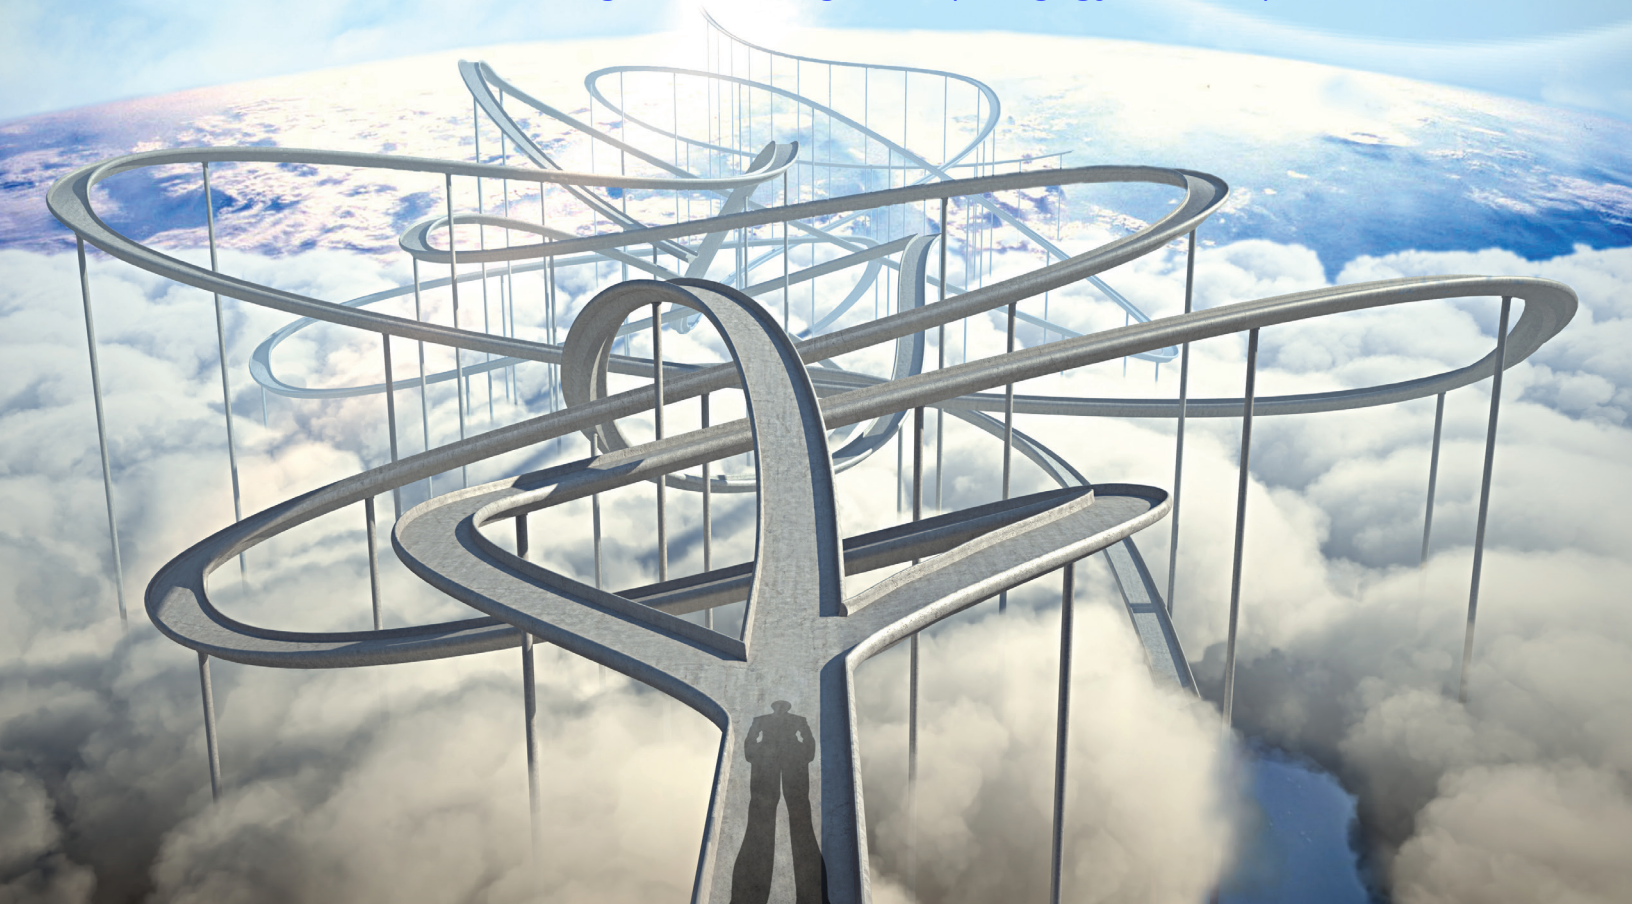

STATION1 (LAWRENCE, MASSACHUSETTS)
MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY (CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS)

THURSDAY JANUARY 23RD (EVENING) - 26TH (SUNDAY), 2020

This three-day interactive, collaborative workshop welcomes instructors from across STEM disciplines, humanities, and social sciences to learn, share, reflect, and co-create pedagogy at the intersection of inclusion, inquiry, and impact. Hosted at Station1's unique active and inclusive learning space, this program is built around leading pedagogical frameworks, approaches, tools, and assessment methods for socially-directed STEM inquiry. Throughout the workshop participants will develop plans for their own integrated course modules, and build community with like-minded educators dedicated to leading curricular and pedagogical reform in the teaching of science and technology topics.
